Our Kaleidoscope

Reflect on your childhood lifestyles. Solely, we are vulnerable; our growth is hindered. Unaware of our incompetence without guidance everything is taken for granted. Carefree times . . . fantasies and imagination obstruct reality and responsibility. Rebundance is often expressed because of our parents' discipline. Only too soon we come to the realization of their purpose; steadfast ideals arranged for the structure of our future. Our patterns remain in symmetry. Inexperience makes our growth and learning a part of their design. A determining agent towards future accomplishment and success – this parental guidance inspires OUR DESIGN, and aims us toward future endeavors.

There comes a time when our childhood is left behind. We played the game . . . learning and inquiring . . the boardwalk of life as responsible individuals flashes before us. Progress is taken in stride and continues to fashion our knowledge through formal education. Administrators and peers amplify the knowledge.

Calvin M. Woodward High School is comprised of people from all walks of life. This colorful melting pot is a strong foundation for teaching and learning.

In order to achieve success in academic or technical studies, sports and activities we all must exert, communicate and translate with one another. This unity creates millions of patterns and designs – unique and useful, successful and informative. Our secondary education serves as a means to establish our individual design and lifestyle.

Woodward High School, 1928 . . . It's not just an architectural structure nor a fount of essential education. Our 1973-74 school year originated from within. Here is OUR KALEIDOSCOPE – reflect . . . pursue . . . succeed!

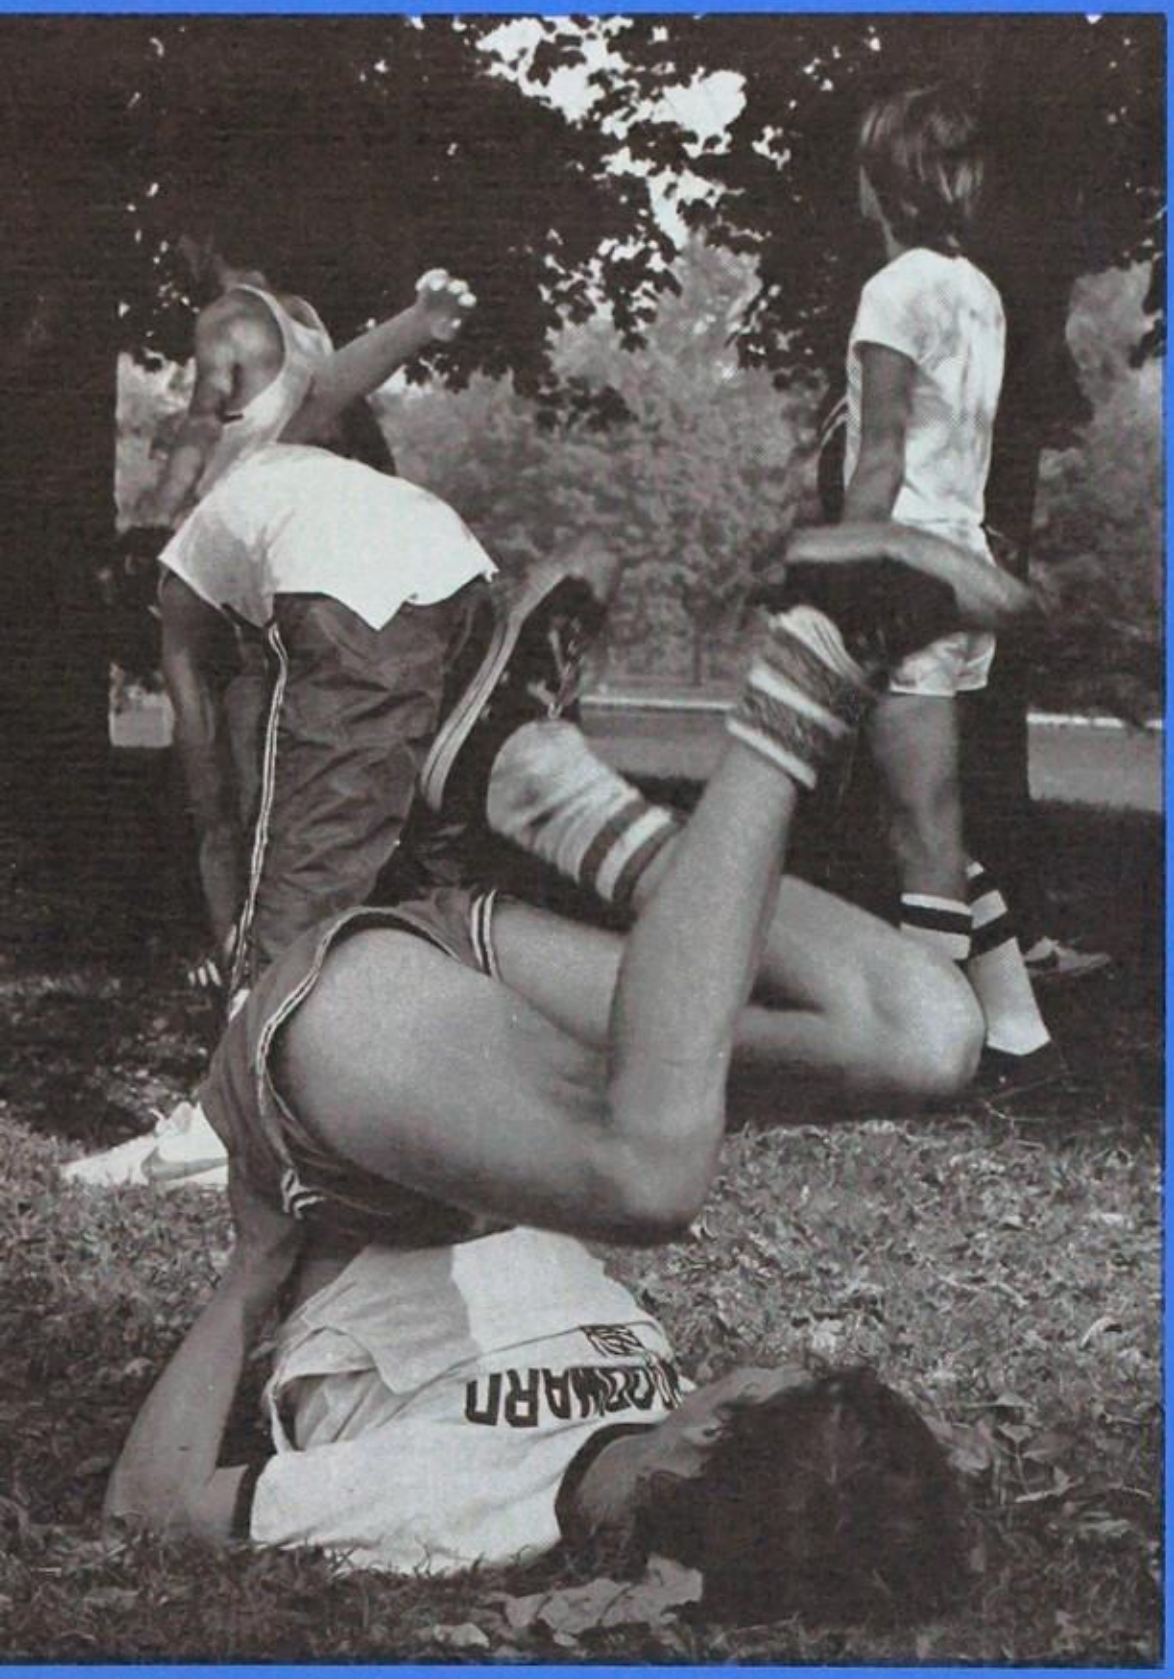
Individuality - Your Lifestyle - the Real You

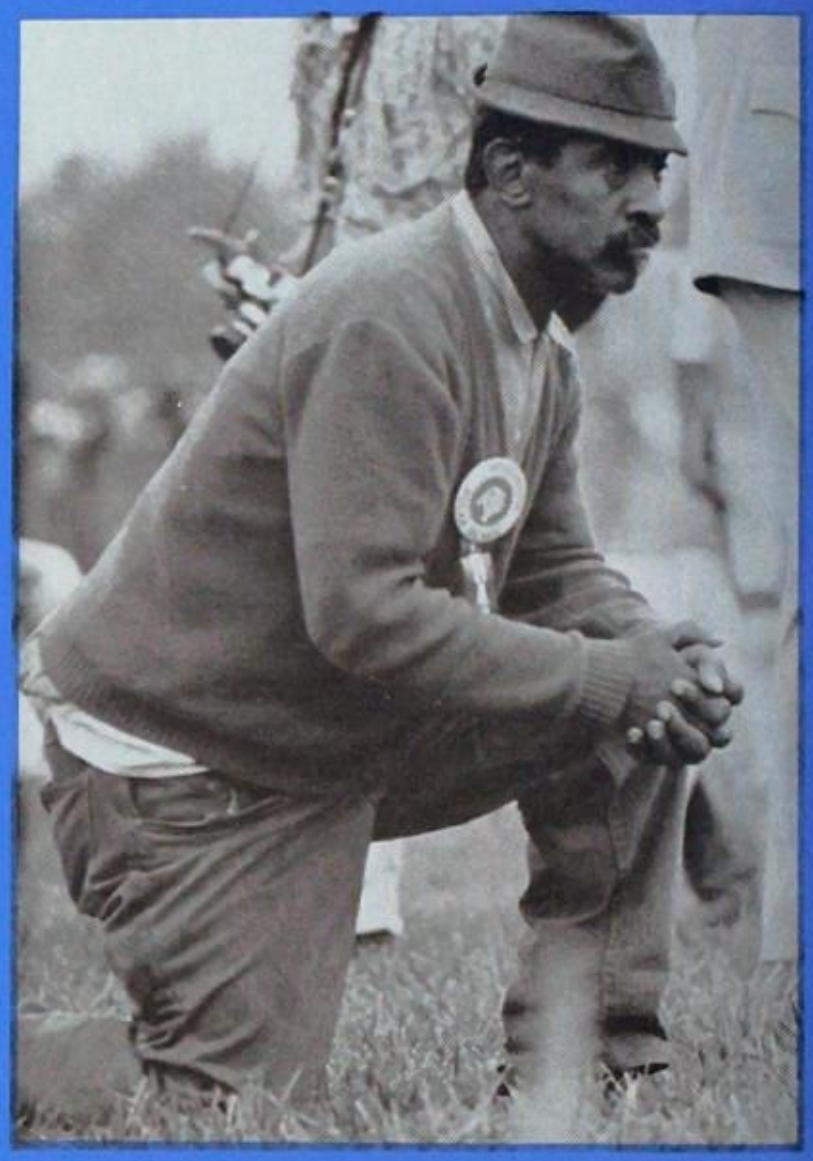


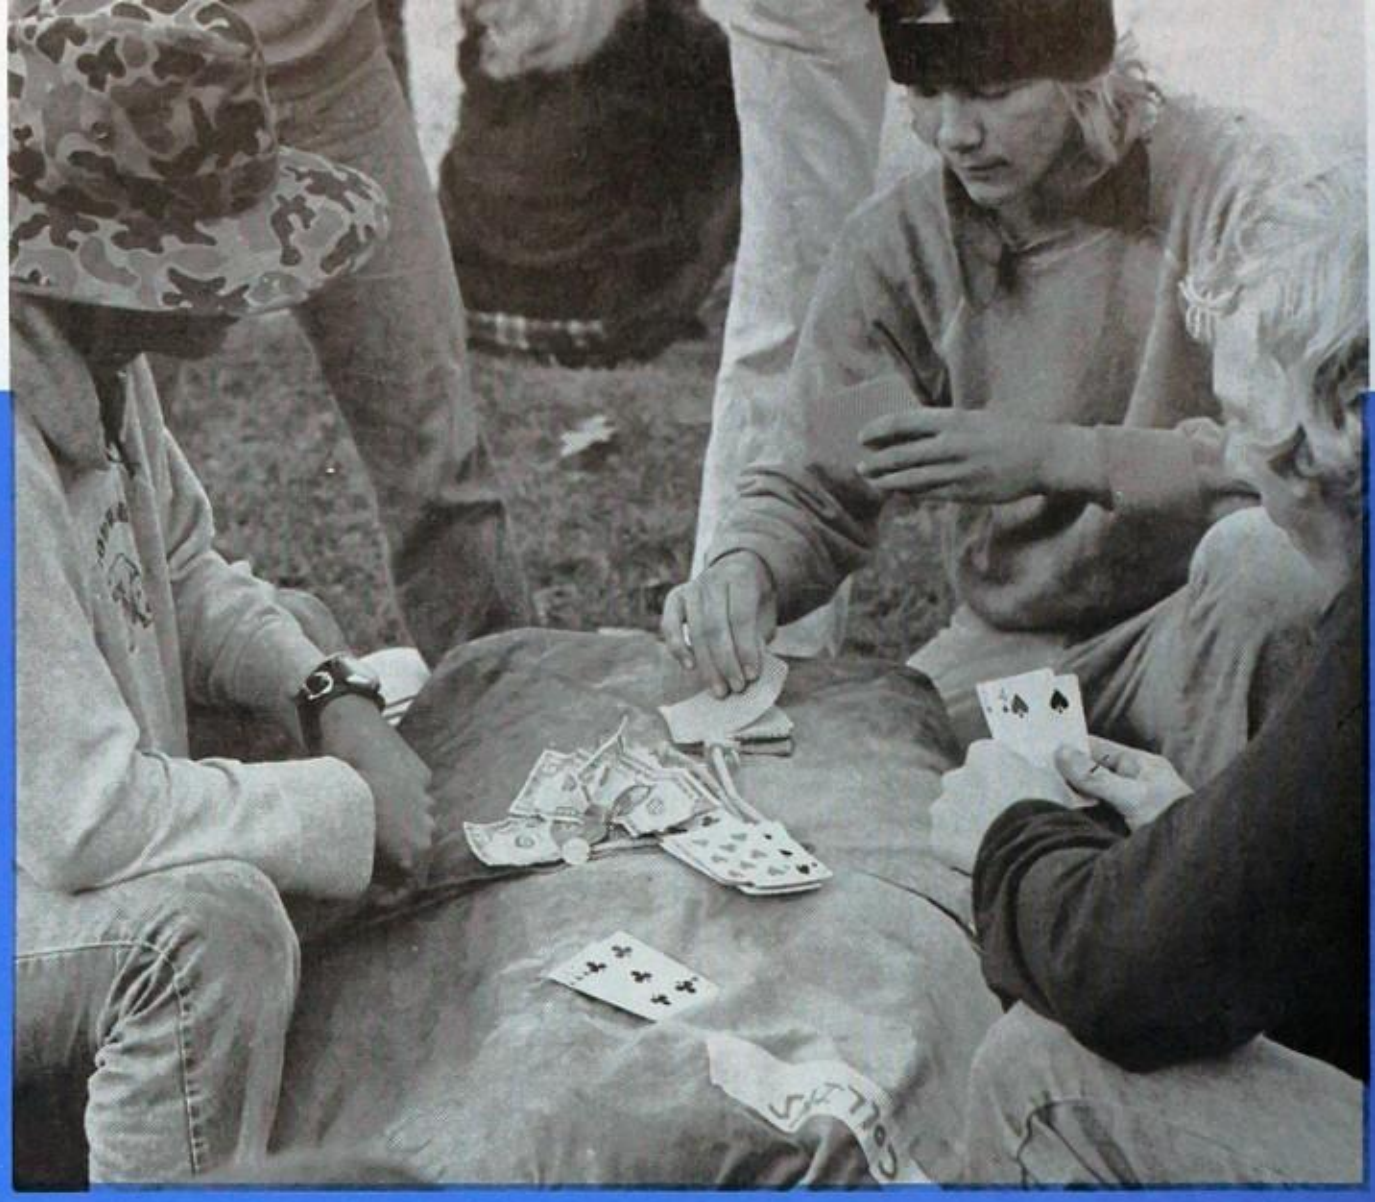
Exist as others – wake, eat, sleep . . . yet only one individual is familiar with the personal tactics necessary in performing these typical routines – YOU!; unique in your own way.

Take time and make an effort; analyze yourself. Aim for your desires; achieve in your accustomed way. Individuality justifies your actions. Reason and develop to the best of your interests and abilities. Accept guidance (a grave necessity), adapting rather than adopting ideals.

As an individual only you can best acquaint yourself with helpful techniques, using sound judgment and past experience.

Be what you are; be only what you can be . . . be you! Accept yourself for what you are. Relate to others with a positive attitude – the real you. An important part of your lifestyle IS the real you; unique . . . exciting . . . beautiful!





Participation - Take Time - Be Constructive

Freshmen . . . Sophomores . . . Juniors . . . Seniors . . . time flies – eluding our grasp, allowing little time for analysis of our actions.

While you're there, moments too often seem endless – long empty hours. Take this time to participate; to be a part of every possible activity. Be involved . . . be constructive . . . be with others . . . be aware! Live for the present – it's a 'once in a lifetime' experience. You're here now . . . turn around . . . these moments are memories of the past. Keeping this in mind, your present – high school and its activities should be taken in stride with a whole-hearted desire to be a part of what's happening.

Intriguing . . . sometimes frustrating . . . joyful . . . these experiences are to be lived now, and with others. Be able to say you were involved. Your secondary education ends as quickly as it begins – catch it while there's time . . . hold on . . . join . . . participate!

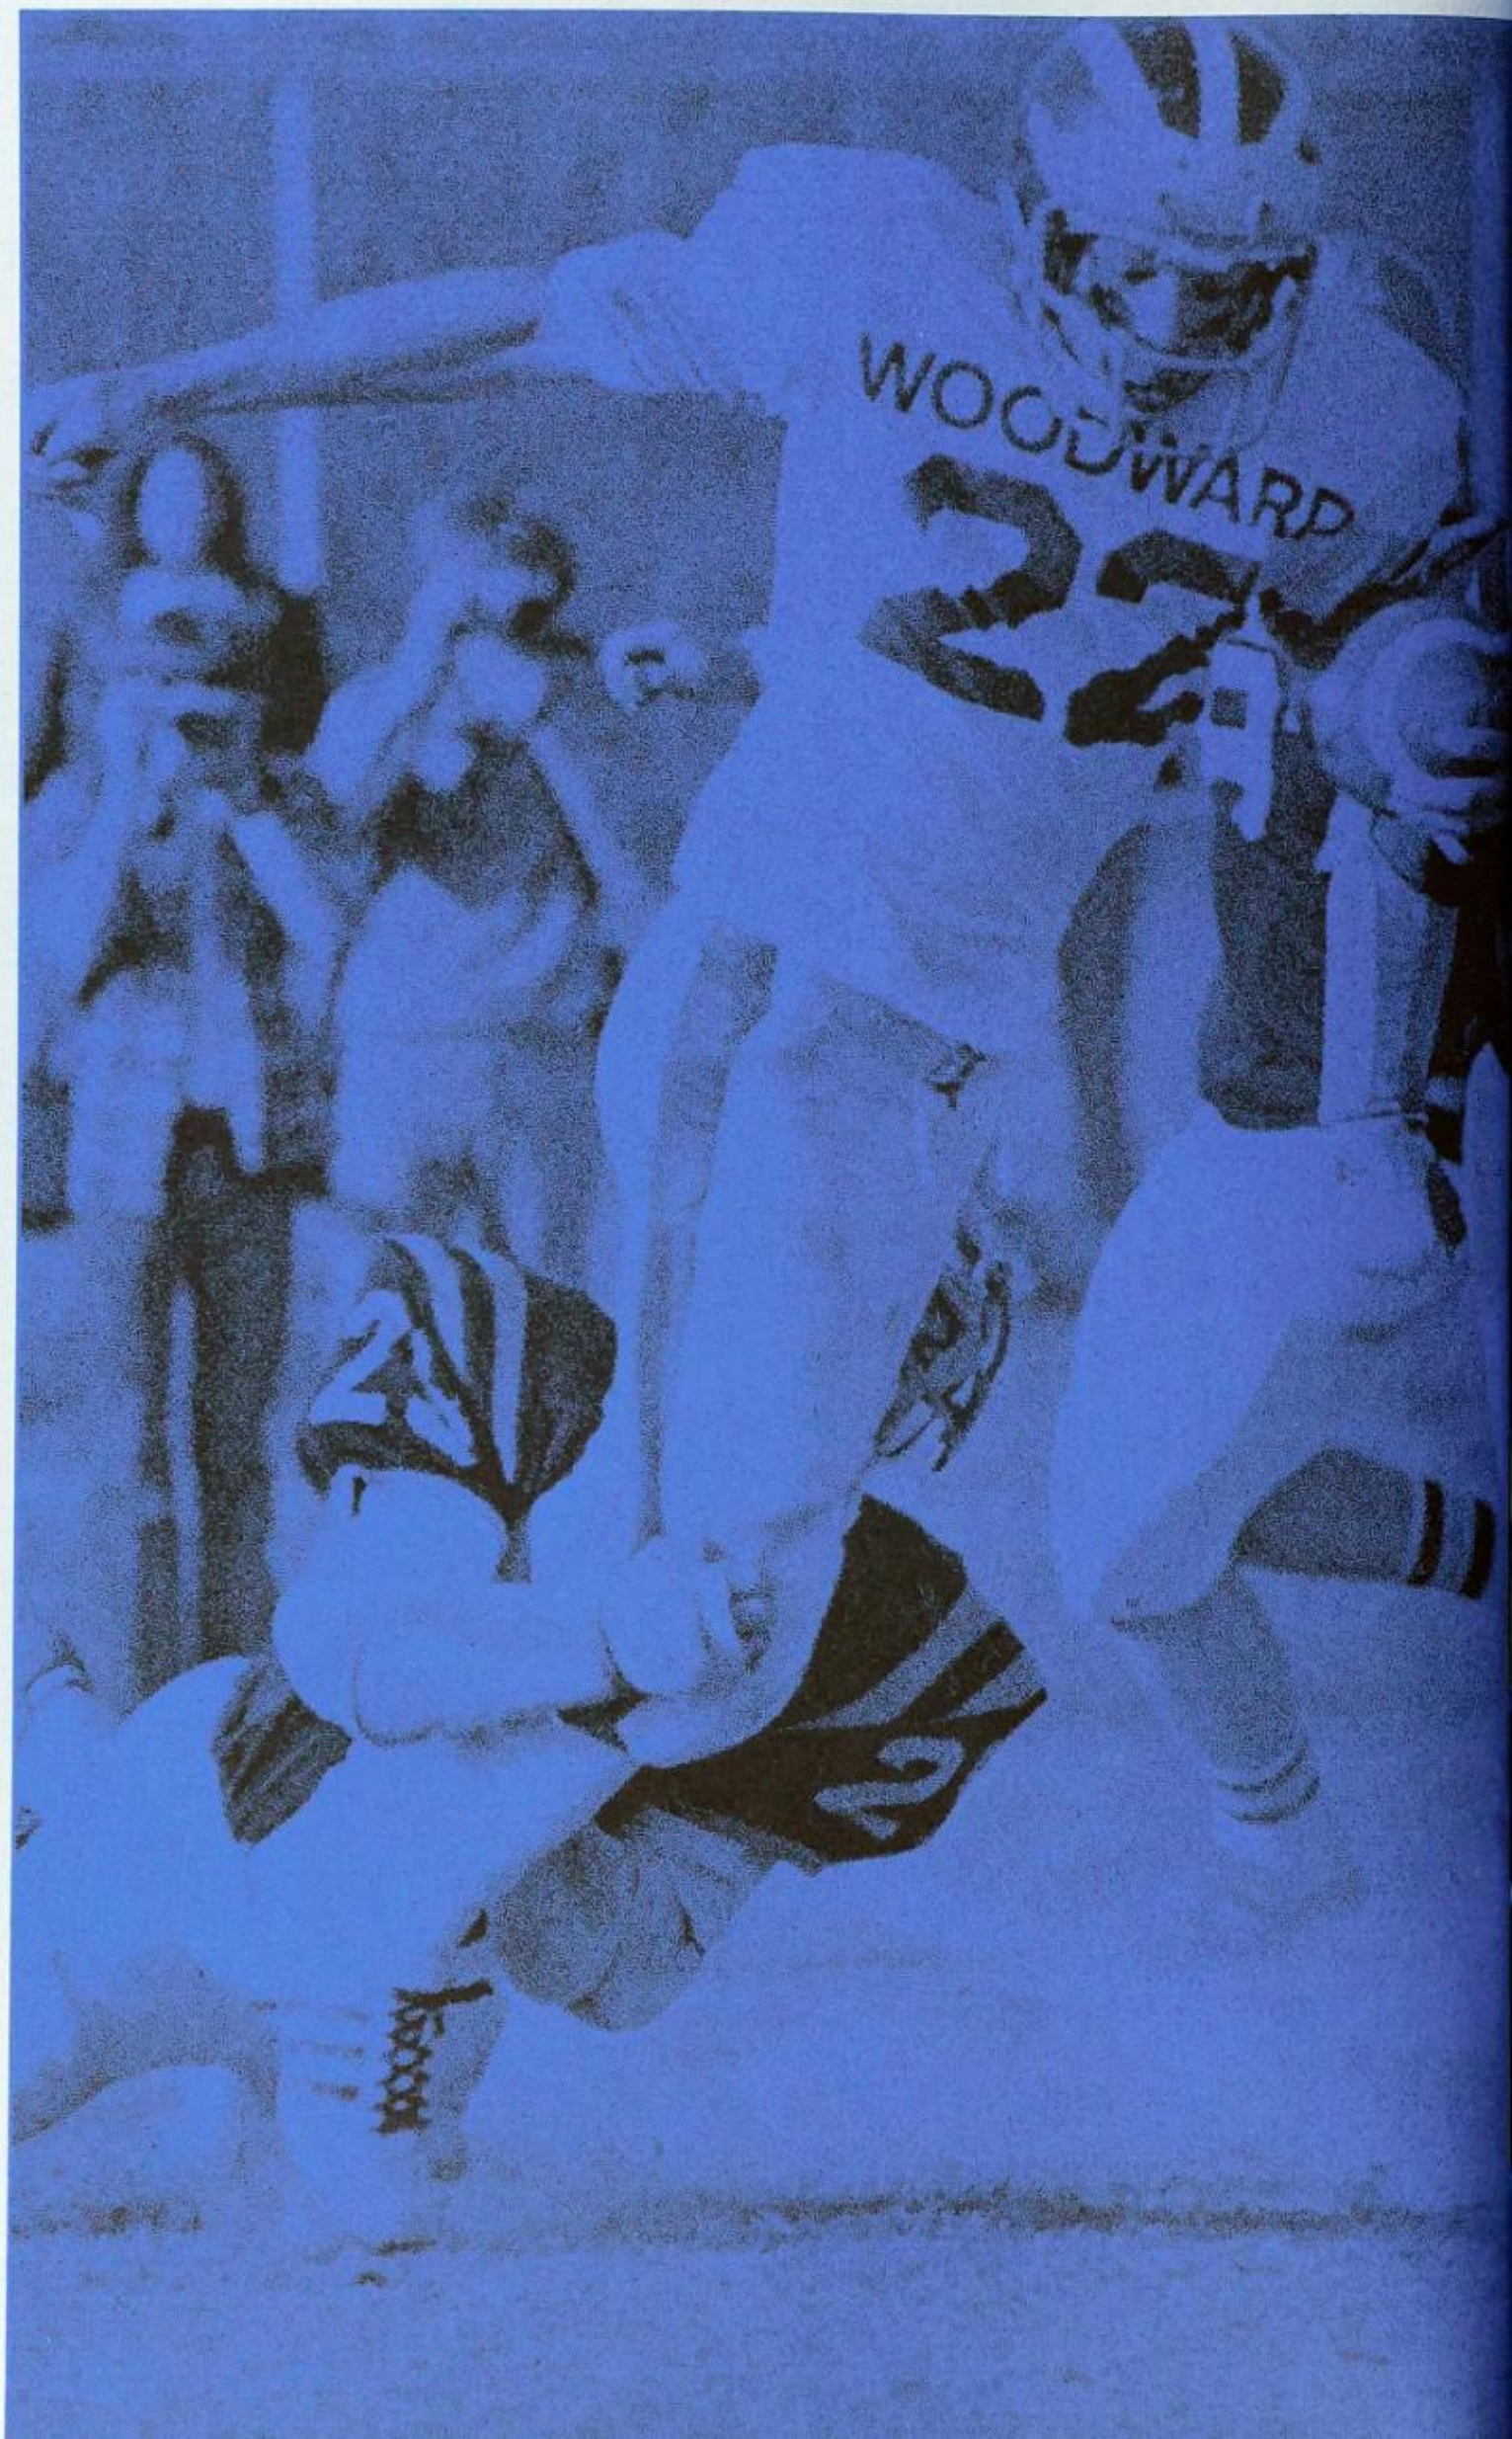
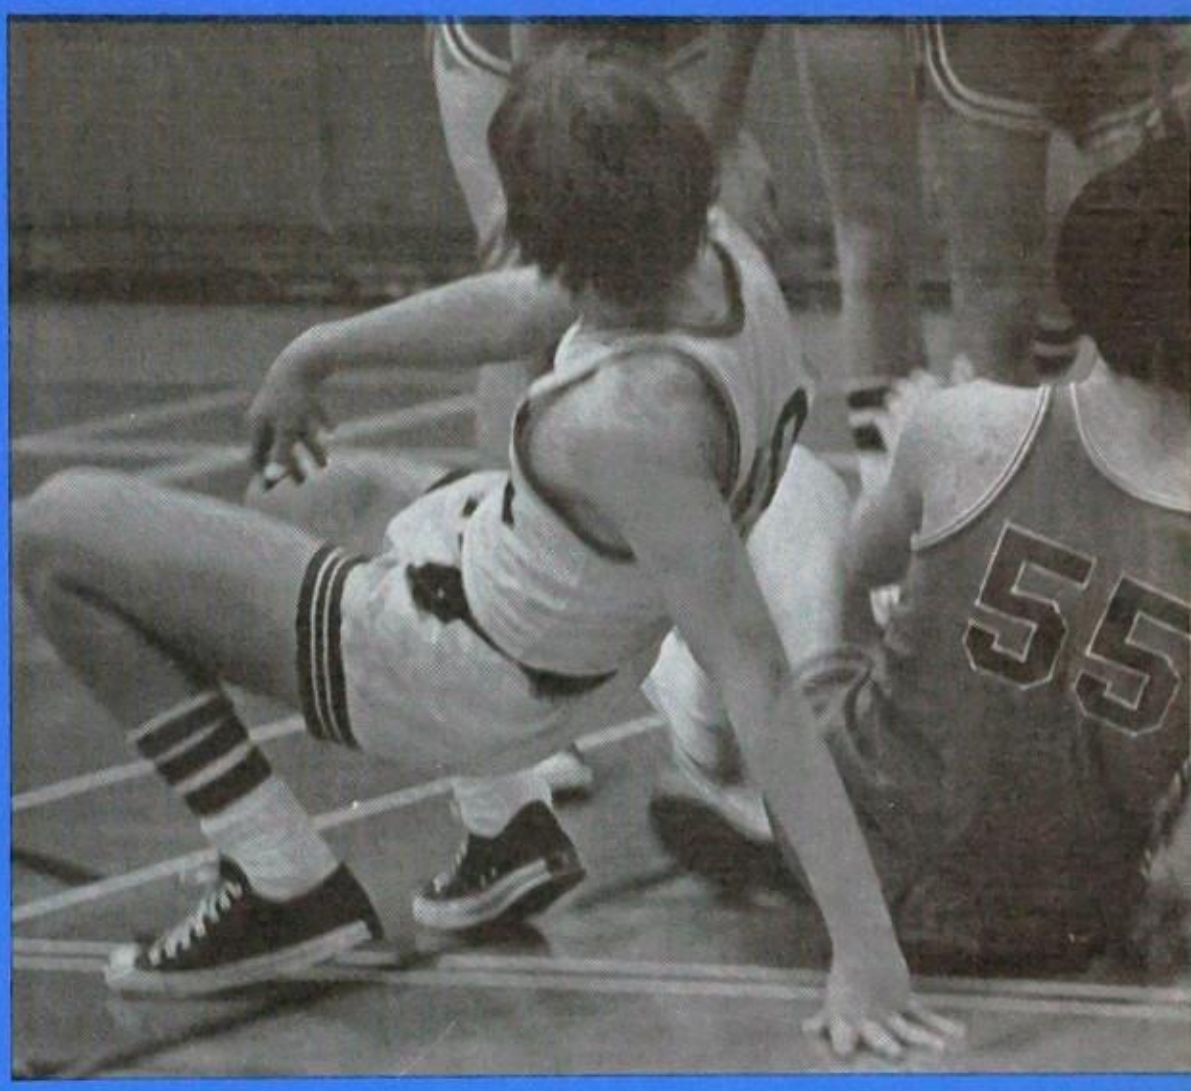
Competition - Train Yourself - Maintain Yourself

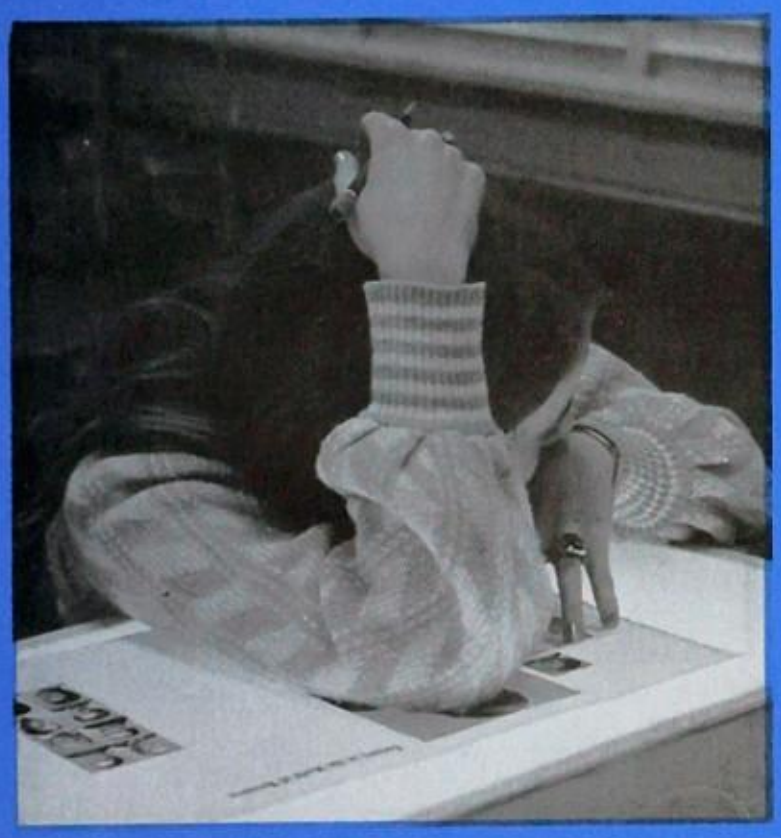


Athletes take your mark . . . get set . . . go . . . pursue your interests for we are all competitors in our field. Whether it be excelling in sports or cramming for an exam, high school is our means to establish goals; to mark our endeavors for the future.

We must make our debut as athletes; to compete, building ourselves mentally and physically. The maintaining of strong minds and bodies is an asset to our development – our design, molding us into mature adults. There comes a time when we must abandon our adolescence – a life filled with responsibility is foreseen. We must now perform as athletes, accepting defeat as well as rejoicing in victory.

Self-discipline is a necessity in this world of competition. Training ourselves; reaching our set goals; marking our endeavors . . . we can overcome most obstacles. Interminable efforts and vigorous training enables us to tackle our future and design our life . . . practice . . . compete . . . finish!



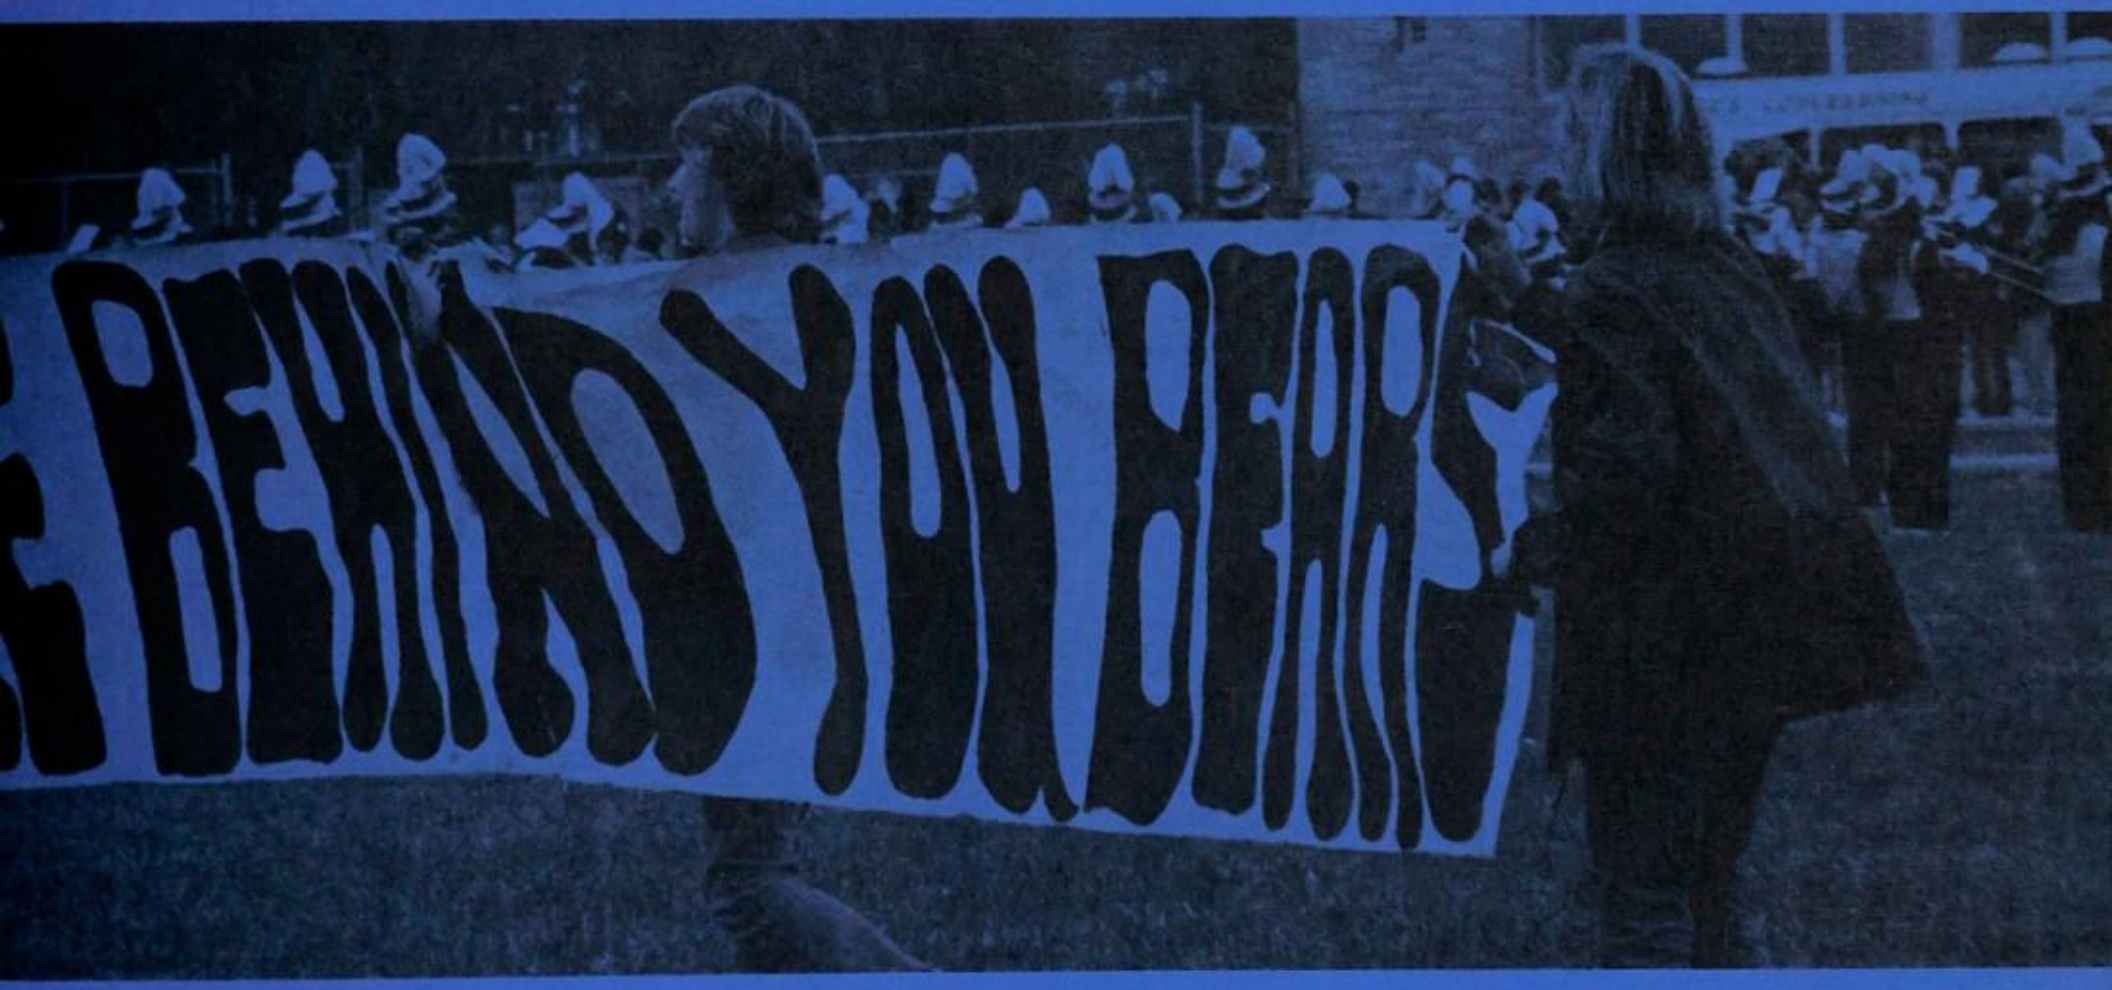


Dedication - Advise and Assist - Be On Hand

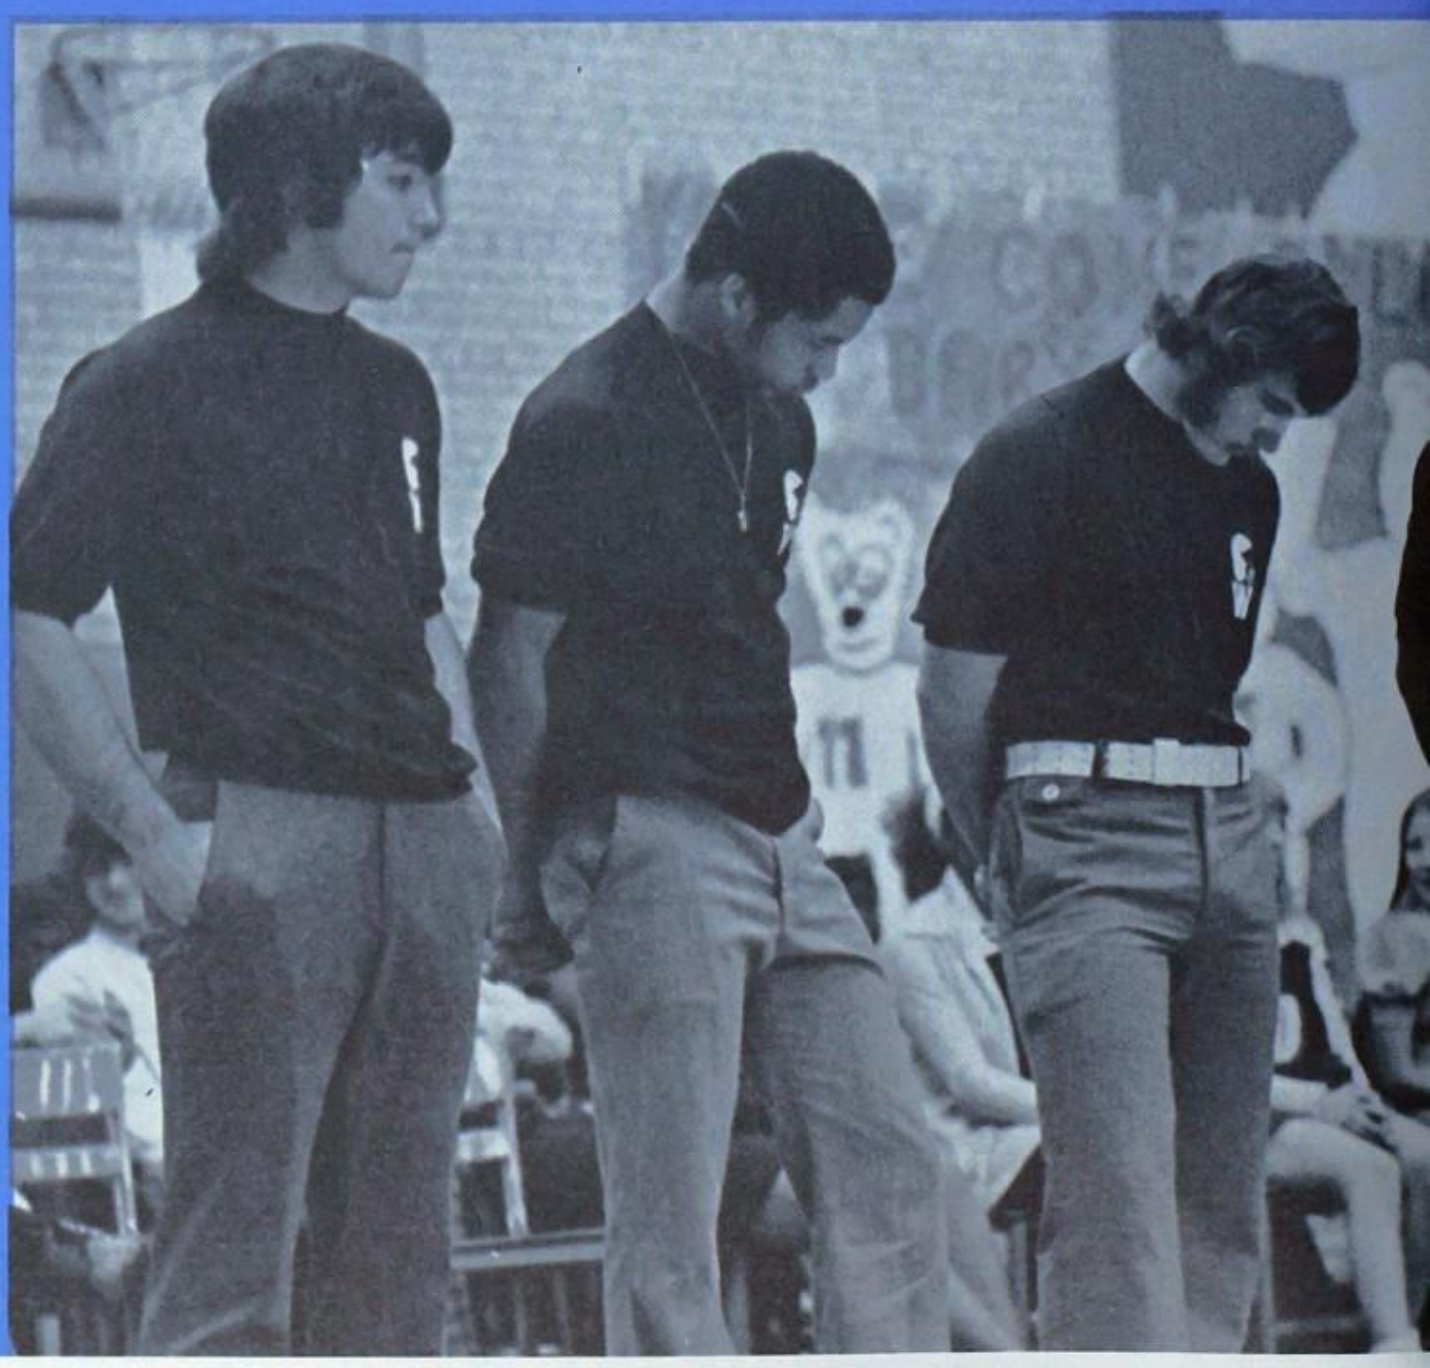
Give of yourself . . . for yourself; for others. A dedicated individual takes times; makes time; is always nearby, advising and assisting. Be on hand, ready and waiting, with 'that extra shoulder on which to lean.'

Your efforts, experiences and knowledge are enlightening and priceless resources for the uninformed and inexperienced. Dedication to others not only contributes to the development of their design, but also fashions your life (its real meaning for existence) more fully. The greatest satisfaction and finding of personal worth is attained through the warm feeling of knowing "I have contributed."

Only too often we tend to smother ourselves with attention – recluses within our own world. Step out! There's a whole different world out there; ready and waiting, full of vibrant, colorful people. Be a part of their accomplishments – give rather than receive; take that first step . . . be there . . . dedicate!



BEHIND YOU BEARS



Foresee Achievement - Gain Recognition -

Exert to the Utmost

To achieve is to satisfy; succeed with your goals. Exert your maximum effort with genuine determination toward fulfillment of these goals. Accomplishing the most minute, least noticeable task as opposed to a front page publicized mind-blowing endeavor is worthy of self-recognition, for a job well done.

Invest your total self, with utmost tolerance, concentrating on advances, learning from failures – stages toward developing your own design; your life. Satisfy yourself . . . perform . . . achieve in every way; building a respect of self, of others and by all.

Your standards will dictate adjustments of goals. Recognition is gained when the initiative is followed by achievement. Unnoticed efforts usually prove very discouraging. As an individual striving to achieve in life, you are challenged with a test of endurance; free to choose your downfall or your success. Go on; continue with your plans . . . your time for recognition will occur – memorable and worth the struggle. Be patient; endure. Your time is at hand – give a hand . . . recognize others . . . in due time be recognized!

Administration Overcomes Obstacles to Achieve Successful Year

Spirited determination; the hallmark of WHS's administrative team. Accepting bold new challenges, while grappling with the omnipresent problems associated with running a school of 3,000 students, receives unending attention from this staff.

The "boss" Mr. Ted Szelagowski, and Assistant Principal Robert Geis, energetically attack all problems with sound attitudes and determination.

Rewarding and encouraging the scholar, inspiring the athlete, calming the irate, and bolstering the discouraged round out the true character of these people – the finest of school administrators.

Counselors' Concern Makes for a Promising Future

Imagine trying to straighten out a confused student or parent, guiding someone to a rewarding future or deciding on fair and corrective discipline. These are just a few of the responsibilities and tasks that rest on our counselors' shoulders. Their constant concern is building a tomorrow for Woodward's growing students.

Students Conquer Math Courses With Determination

When the topic of Math arises, do you experience a slight quiver in your stomach, or detect the existence of a tension headache? If so, you've probably been approaching this subject the wrong way. Contrary to popular belief, complicated problems and formulas are not presented to students as a means of torture. Possessing mathematical skills is an asset that will benefit students in many areas of everyday living.

Basic classes study the fundamentals of math while students who desire more advanced knowledge take Algebra, Geometry, or Trigonometry. A new elective, Special Topics in Mathematics, was designed for seniors as an alternative to Trigonometry. This course probes deeper into areas of math only lightly covered previously.

Language Students Discover Enchantment of Foreign Lands

Imagine dining in a quaint cafe in Paris, or listening to the mellow strums of a mandolin in Spain . . . Sound enchanting? The foreign language department presents the opportunity for students to explore the languages, cultures, and traditions of other colorful countries. The courses offered are French, Latin, Spanish and German.

Teachers are able to share their personal experiences with foreign lifestyles to the students. This first-hand information is always extremely enlightening. Enthusiasm displayed in teaching is the best method to develop an enjoyable atmosphere for learning.

Kedzierski, Meszaros Assist Students in Careers and Employment

Mr. Lewis Meszaros is in charge of the job placement office. Primary concern is with graduating students and postgraduates. Interviews at local business establishments are arranged for students seeking employment. Mr. Meszaros often transports the students to the interview, if necessary. A brochure is compiled during the year, listing graduating seniors, their majors and career plans. In the spring this brochure is sent to 2,000 businesses.

The Career Exploration Program is under the able supervision of Mr. Michael Kedzierski. Involving freshmen and sophomores, this program is geared to assist students in learning about future work opportunities. Discovering student interests and aptitudes enables this program to expose students to their career interest. Sophomores have the opportunity to spend time with an employer in the field of their choice.

These two programs are obviously performing valuable and worthwhile services for the students.

Librarian, Nurse - Ever Ready Aides to Woodward Students

Have you ever stopped to consider the usefulness of a library without a librarian? You'd find books in disorder, utter chaos in and out of all the bookshelves. Thanks to our librarian Mrs. McMillian and library clerk Mrs. Gensler, we have an efficiently organized hide-out with no excuse not to be digging up secret treasures for that important term paper.

Groans and moans, aches and pains . . . It can only mean full time traffic in the nurse's office.

Miss Judith Breese (alias Florence Nightingale) faithfully cares for ailing students. Her responsibilities are immense; she must always be prepared for any calamity that might occur. It's reassuring to know Woodward students can depend on Miss Breese when a problem arises.

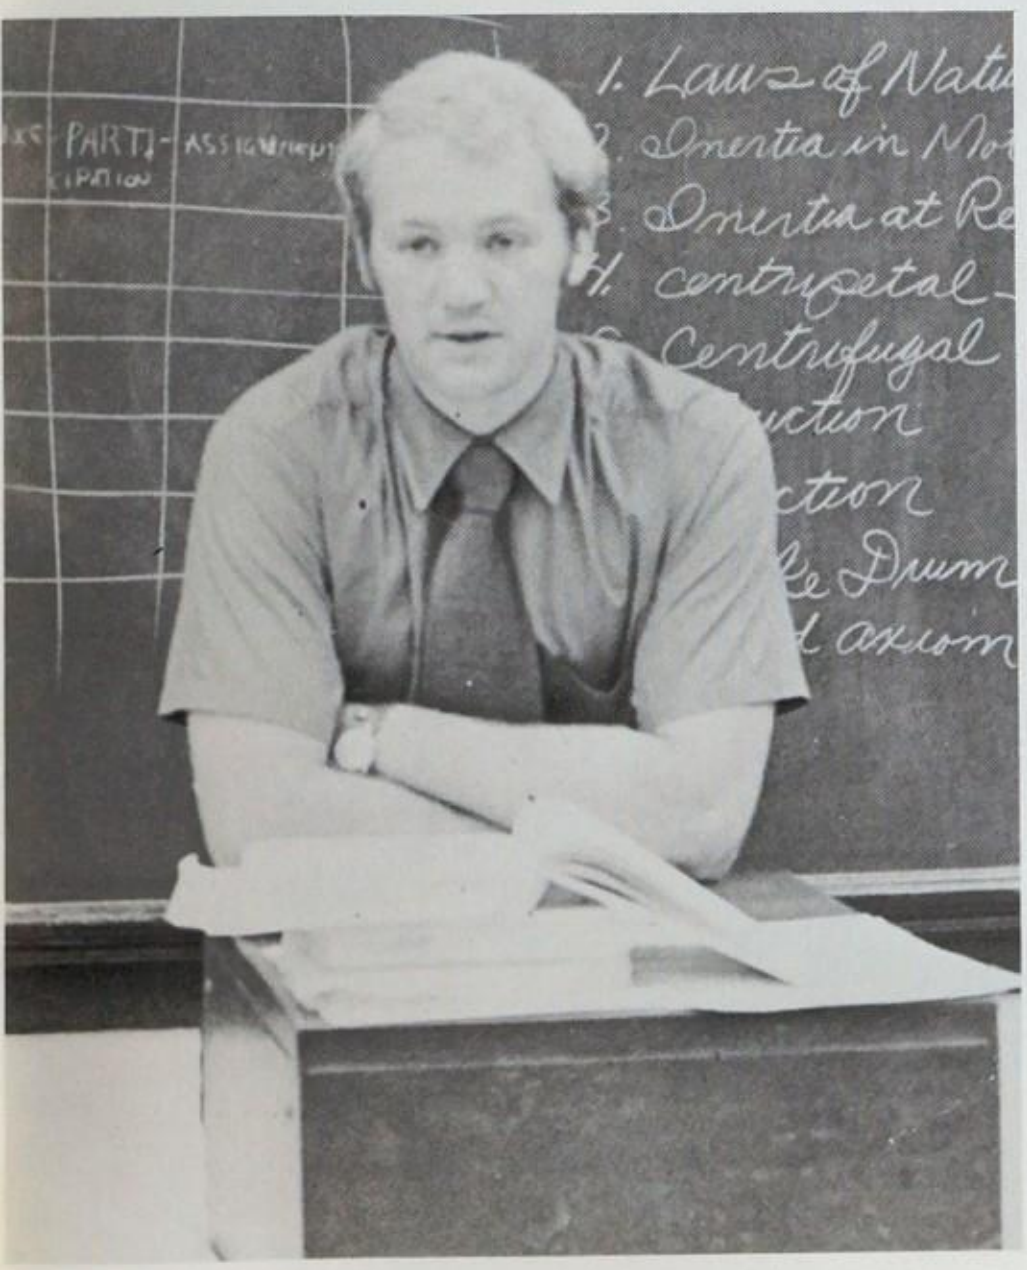
Driver's Education Stresses Safe Driving Habits



Mr. Fox, ABOVE, explains the dangers of driving to his students.

Increases in auto mishaps have resulted in a need for greater safety. A giant step in combating this problem is the Driver's Education Program. Through this course, students are instructed in proper and safe operation of an automobile. The teachers also emphasize the responsibilities a student assumes when he's behind the wheel of a car.

The course in divided into three major areas: classroom, actual driving, and simulator. If students understand the seriousness of driving, it can only mean safer roads in the future.

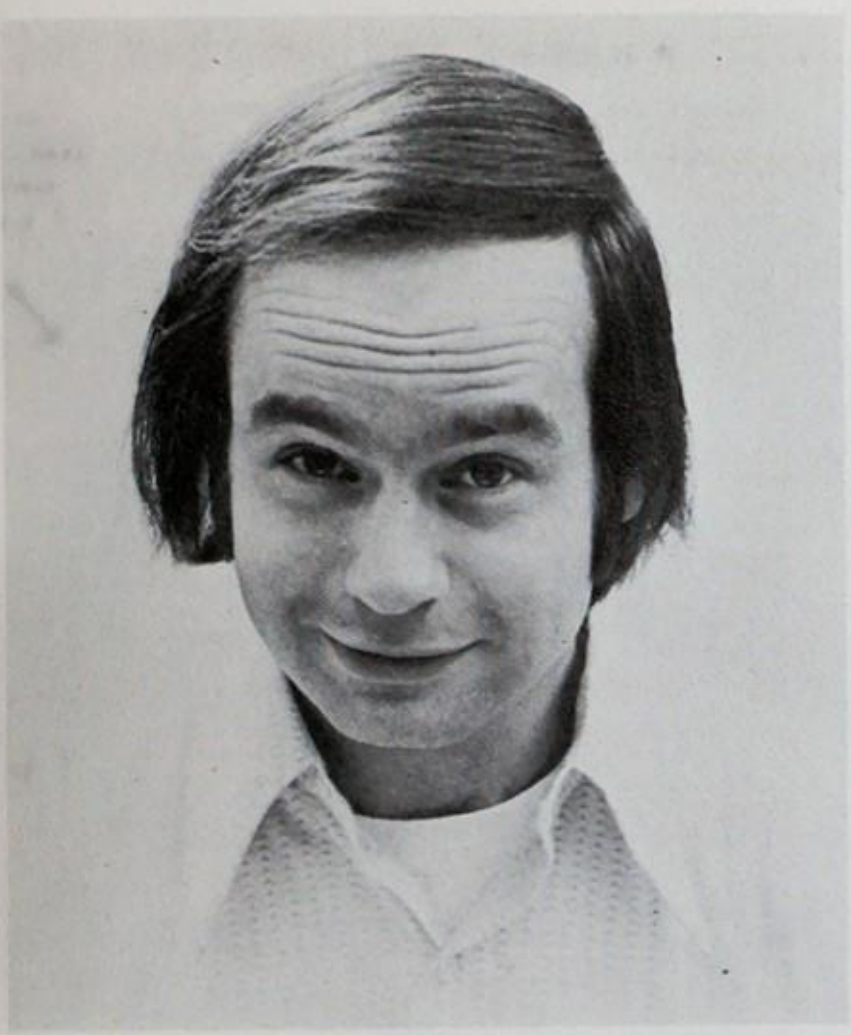
Careers in the World of Business



Have you five thumbs on each hand? Is it impossible for you to sit at a typewriter without tangling your feet around the legs of the chair? Does your teacher find fault with four-inch fingernails? If this sounds like you, you must be enrolled in a typing class, a necessity for Woodward's business program. Along with typing, shorthand, and accounting, general office practice is offered for a student interested in the world of business.

Are you hoping to be a multi-millionaire someday? Distributive Education gives Seniors a chance to try their luck in retailing, wholesaling, or service occupations. Two hours in class, and afternoons on the job training determines many futures for students involved in the DECA program.

Gridders Remain Strong Through Grueling Season

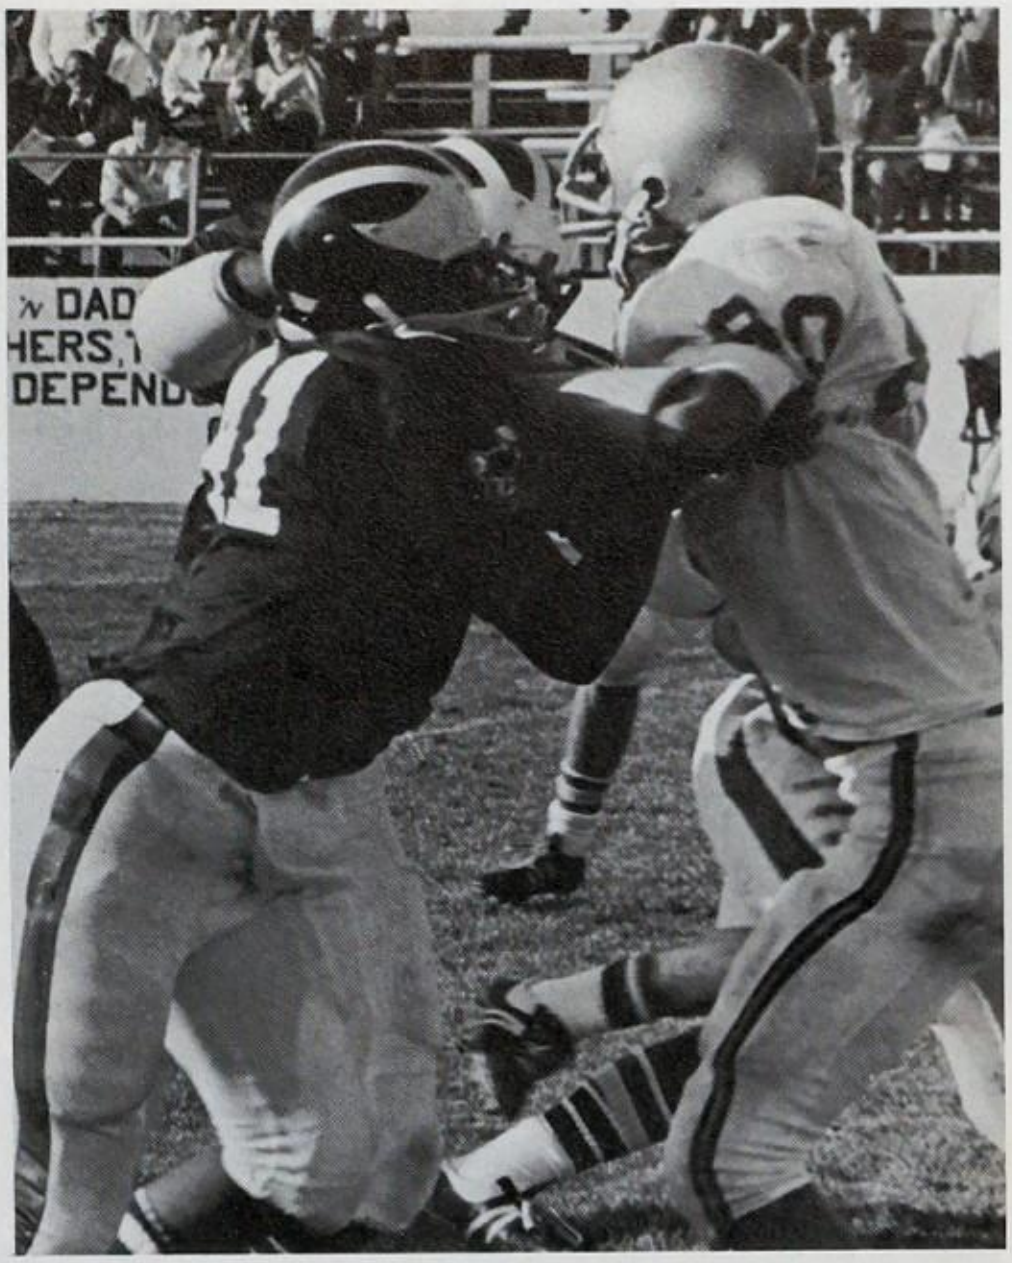
Woodward vs. Central

For the second year in a row, Woodward was outclassed by their Cherry St. rivals as Central's Fighting Irish whipped the Polar Bears, 34-14.

What looked like a close game throughout most of the first half suddenly erupted into a Central rout in the final minute of the second quarter as Central scored two touchdowns to take a commanding 18-6 halftime lead.

The third period provided more of the same, with Central scoring twice again, paralyzing the Bears both offensively and defensively. However, Central was to score no more, as the only tally in the fourth quarter went to Woodward on a one yd. run by Mark Scanes. Added to Terry Cooper's first period TD, this gave Woodward a total of 14 points, not nearly enough to overpower the stronger, more confident Irish.

Power, pride and stride, qualities that mark the mighty Bears as they keep on trucking for a few more yards.



ABOVE and BELOW, Woodward All-City Athletes ramble downfield for still another touchdown, while LEFT, our determined linemen encounter a bit more opposition than was expected.

Woodward vs. Start

In the words of Coach Sonny Smith, "John Harper is the best college prospect in the city of Toledo." Better proof of this could be found nowhere as in Harper's brilliant play in the Homecoming game against Start.

It happened in the final period, as Start was leading Woodward 7-6, and the Polar Bears were frantically trying to hold the Spartans on the Woodward 9-yard line. It was then that Harper pulled his unbelievable stunt, fighting his way through the Spartan line, and intercepting a hand-off that was meant for anyone but him. Almost unheard of in high school football, Harper then streaked 91 yards for the touchdown, pursued by a flock of stunned Spartans.

Lennie Edwards ran the two-point conversion, leaving the final score at 14-7. Micky Green also scored for the Bears, but the glory and the game ball definitely belonged to Harper.

Team Clinches Red Division Title

The success of this year's Junior Varsity football team came as a pleasant surprise to all of Woodward High School, including coach Bob Heider, and the JV players themselves. Not to say that coach Heider doubted his team's ability, nor that the athletes themselves had no self-confidence, but it has been eight years since Woodward's JV squad captured a division title, let alone the city championship. This team is certainly one to be proud of, and its members will be a great asset to next year's Varsity squad.

Football is not the only sport these athletes excel in. The JV basketball team also experienced its moments of glory. Practicing daily, these young men worked hard to live up to coach George Patterson's expectations. They, too, were a source of pride for Woodward High School and will surely go on to greater achievements as Varsity athletes.

Freshmen Abilities Provide Promising Outlook

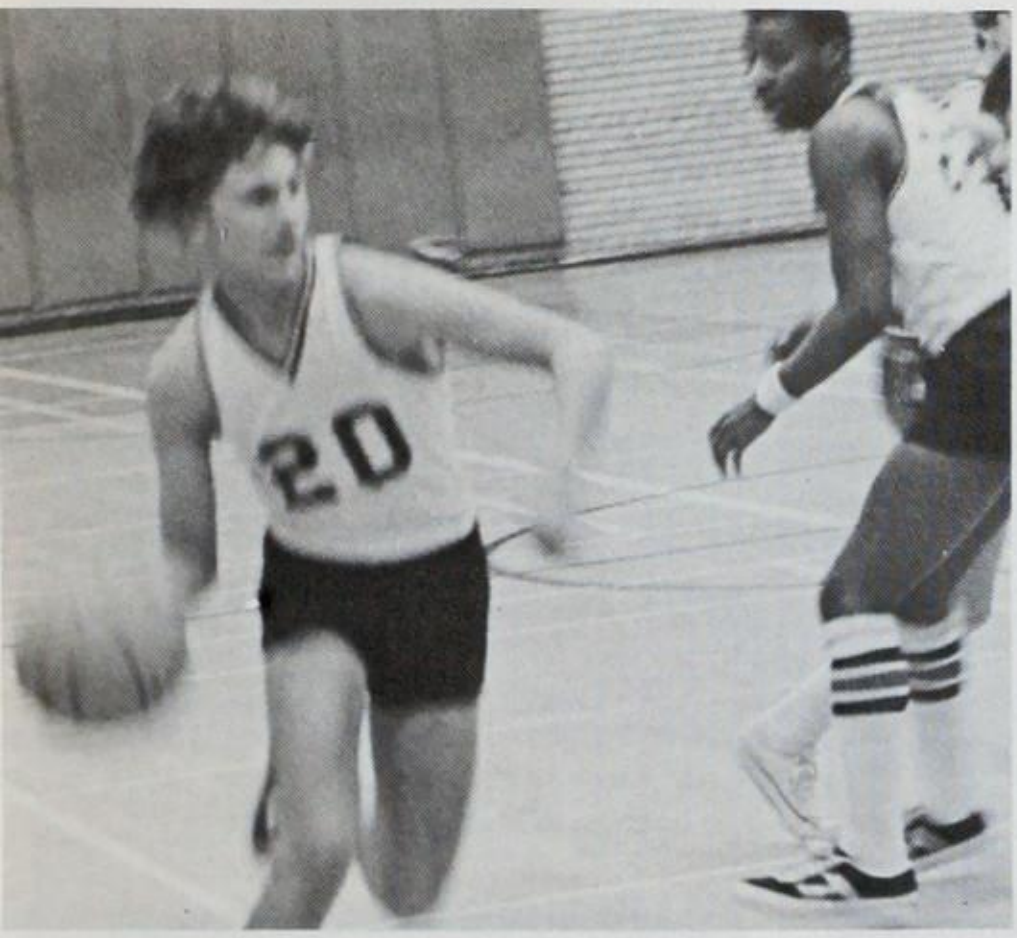
Football is a time-consuming competitive sport experienced by most boys during their elementary education. This sport demands a sound mind and body, full cooperation, and a desire to strive for the best, completely disregarding game standings. The freshmen football team along with coaches, Mr. Hughes and Mr. Chamberlain, have displayed these characteristics by fearlessly attacking their schedule. During the season these boys have added a new dimension to their lives, gathering valuable experience from one year of high school football.

Freshmen Learn Basics of Basketball



Freshmen are always learning new principles and techniques where athletics are concerned. The Freshmen Basketball Team, under the coaching of Mr. Heider, showed their willingness and initiative to learn the sport. They combined individual talents and came up with an industrious team with a bright future.

No, you don't have to be 6 ft. tall to play, but it helps. Coordination is the key, and power is a must. Power Volleyball is the name of the game, and it's the newest sport on the Woodward athletic scene. Comprised of eleven competitive females, the team sailed through its two month season with 4 wins, 6 losses. Encouraged and organized by Mr. Bounds, and coached by Miss Spratt, the girls caught on easily to a rigorous and fast-paced sport.

Not so new at Woodward, but definitely as popular is the Girls' Basketball Team. Rising out of the league cellar for the first time in the team's history,

The team members led by Captain Shelley Brown, each proved eager to display their talents. Sandy Clark especially shone as top scorer; she was also honored as Most Valuable Player.

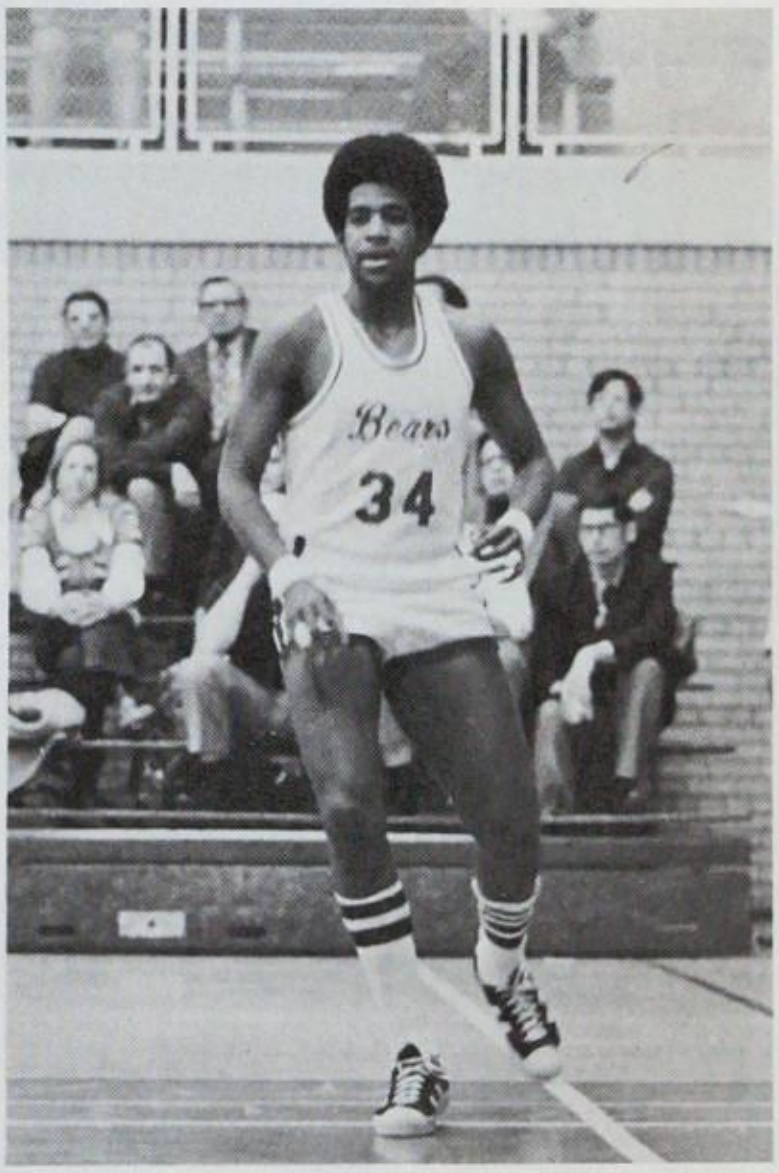
Varsity Cagers Looking Forward to the Future

Playing varsity basketball is a dream for many young men—a reality for those who set their goals far in advance and work towards achieving them. Our team this year did not fulfill many anticipations of a successful season but the relatively young athletes did show prospects for a brighter future. Frustration and defeat was felt by all—the players, coaches and fans, which resulted in the resignation of Mr. Stoner our two-year varsity basketball coach.



ABOVE, Keith Bell is in good position to get the ball and put it in.

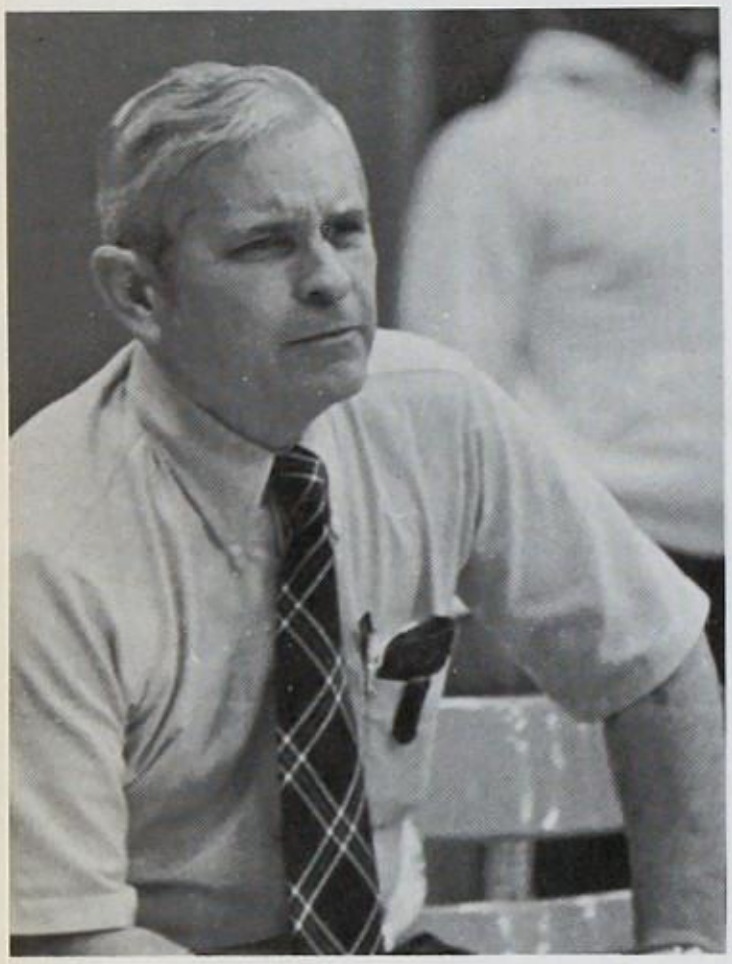
Wrestlers Strive to Overcome Opposition



COACH HAROLD CLEMENT

He is pitifully thin. The shadows beneath his eyes are ever-present from November till mid-March, and his hollow cheeks betray his hunger. Passing him in the hall, you are nearly overcome by the irresistible urge to take him home and fill him with a good home-cooked meal.

All the suffering is self-inflicted—he insists! He must make his weight! He is a wrestler. His winter activities consist mainly of dieting and sweating, sweating and dieting.

These sacrifices and deprivations are all worthwhile. Wrestling is an individual sport; the victory or defeat belongs to one man alone. Only he can take credit for the pin; only he can be blamed for the wrong move. Yet the rewards of this sport have proven far greater than any hardships a wrestler must endure.

Hockey Team Arouses Woodward Spirit

Fast moving, hard hitting, action filled . . . Hockey proves itself as an exciting sport to watch. Chess Team Keeps Opponents in 'Check'

Checkmate, the ultimate result of a game well played. There are sixteen pieces on each side that are moved in accordance to the rules striving for this goal. Although chess is a pastime for many Americans these people consider it a competitive sport.

With Mr. Lloyd, the coach, the team prepares for each match. When they meet their opponents it becomes a one-on-one battle filled with deep concentration and strategy. Whether the result is a win or loss Woodward can be proud of their chess team.

Sheer enjoyment, pastime for relaxation . . . Although bowling is thought of in these terms by many people, it's also classified as a sport for league competition. The abilities and skills of bowlers are put to trial during competition, and because our young men have utilized their talents to capacity, they have earned the respect of fans and opponents alike.

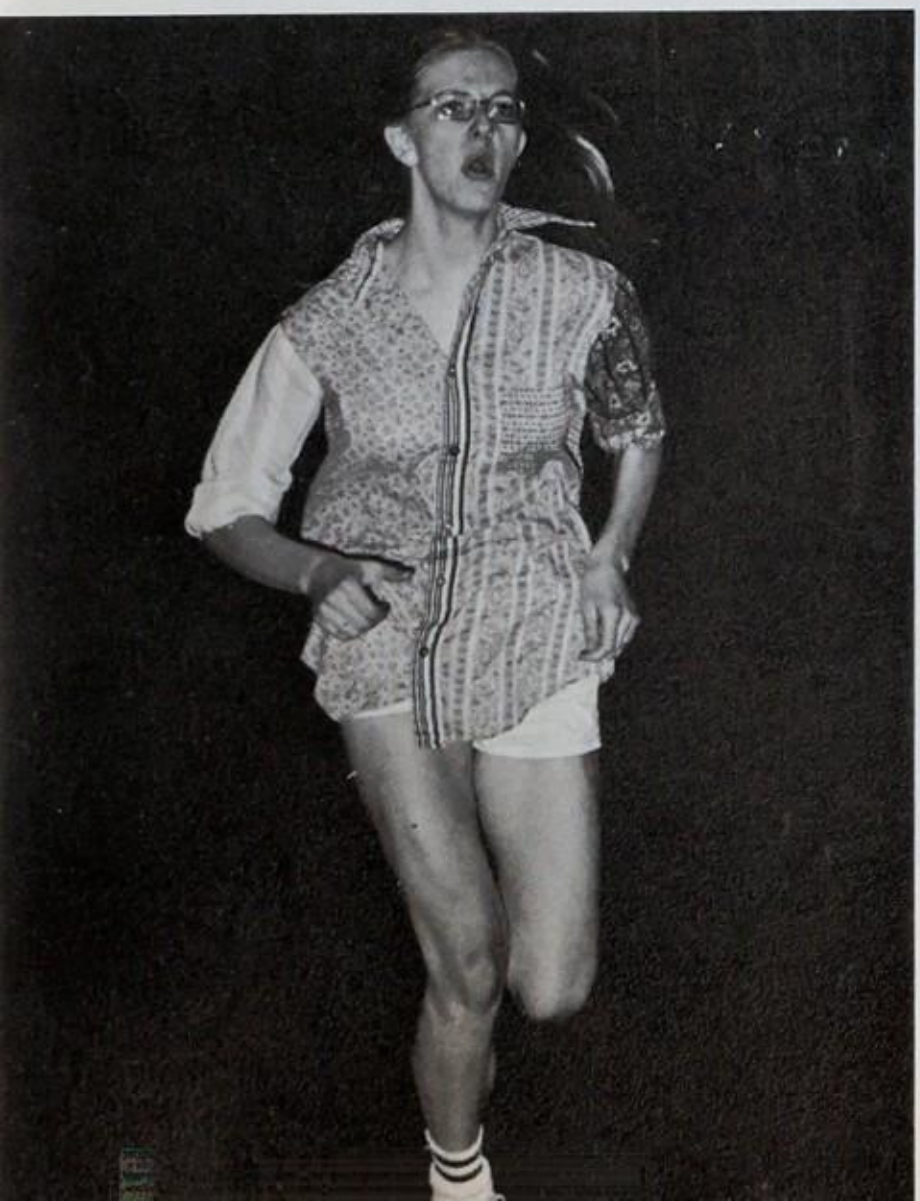
Talent and Hard Work Prove Advantageous for Girls



Women certainly can be successful competitors. Proof of this statement is seen in the accomplishment of the Girls' Track Team. A strong necessity for competitive sports results from the growing number of ladies with interests and desires to participate in athletics. Woodward accepts this challenge with early practices, enabling every hardworking female athlete to develop her talents to their peak during the season. The remarkable determination of coach Mr. Smith is an asset to the fine performances of these ladies and the final outcome of the season.

Moments of glory are few and fleeting in an athlete's career. Last week's touchdown is overshadowed by today's fumble. Recognition comes rarely, and even when it does, you wonder if all the practice and hard work was worth the pat on the back; the small paragraph in the school paper.

But is acclaim all you seek; fame all you hope to achieve? That is doubtful. Self-satisfaction is a major incentive to any endeavor. Pinning an opponent, hitting a home run, winning a race . . . only you, the athlete, can know the fulfillment these accomplishments bring. And that feeling is far greater than any obtained from someone else's empty words of praise.

Homecoming Spirit Follows the Bears Wherever They Go

The prospect of celebrating Homecoming on the opponent's field may seem a disheartening thought to some, but to the Woodward Polar Bears this served as an incentive to try even harder. Sleepless nights devoted to last minute preparations for Homecoming '73 made possible the Polar parade beaming with spirit, pride and loyalty. Diligent work and the excitement of the festivities combined to make a most memorable Homecoming. Determined, the unbeatable Bears shone through, securing the coveted Guilded Shoe with a 14-7 victory over the Start Spartans.

Preparations were made . . . days passed quickly . . . nominations were held. Outstanding charm, spirit, accomplishments, and looks to match determined Woodward's choice for the Homecoming queen nominees. More waiting, wonder, hoping . . . that special moment finally arrived. Happiness and satisfaction ignited tears and cheers of pride and congratulations as Kathy Grzecki was crowned 1974 Homecoming Queen, reigning with her court over the annual festivities.

Did you ever stop to think what a football game, mass meeting, or other school event would be like without the band? Any activity would seem empty if it lacked the enjoyable interludes provided by these dedicated musicians. They start practice in the summer and earnestly continue daily, throughout the entire year.

A great asset to the Woodward High School Band is the new director, Mr. Haga. His patience and diligent work is needed to develop the musical ability in each of the students and to combine their talents to create enjoyable programs.

A wide range of activities, inclusive to Woodward's curriculum, provide time-consuming enjoyment offering a switch from purely academic studies.

Musical abilities can be executed through the orchestra. Under the direction of Mr. Haga, determined students put long hours of hard work into the production of a concert. The end result . . . superiority in rhythm and harmony. The sincere efforts of the members of the orchestra are repaid with audience appreciation and the knowledge that they have excelled in their instrumental endeavors.

Student Council Leads Students in School Affairs

Room 220 has become a common place for confused club presidents, complaints, activity scheduling and affairs involving Woodward High School and its student body. Student Council has the gigantic responsibility of initiating and executing school programs and projects and is held accountable for all club functions and numerous outside activities.

The task evidently is a very difficult one to fulfill, but the officers and Executive Board accept the challenge willingly.

Informative, Enjoyable Tattler Appeals to Many

ABOVE, Co-editors Joanne Miller and Gloria Lewandowski find their hands full overseeing the weekly publication of the Tattler. RIGHT, Advisor, Miss Markopoulos, fondly surveys her Tattler domain.

The Tattler carries the popular tradition of keeping Woodward informed and up-to-date. Each week the competent staff manages to meet its deadlines sending the paper to the press packed with the latest news, sports, fiction and special features. Literary creations filled with enjoyment and entertainment stem from the imaginations of the staff and other Woodward students. These qualities evident in every issue account for the fact that Miss Markopoulos is always working to develop and polish the journalistic techniques of her staff—our potential reporters and editors of tomorrow perhaps?

Illustriousness and Creativity Prevail on Saga Staff

A complete eyecatching, accurate, illustrated, 'best seller' by popular demand around Woodward – the 1974 Saga; prepared and edited by a group of very determined, talented and hard-working individuals.

The challenge is taken eagerly on a demanding and time-consuming basis. United efforts and unique ideas enable the staff to pictorially capture Woodward life . . . everything from athletics and activities to organizations and school curriculum.

Intelligence and Scholarship Abound in Quiz Bowl Members

What team at Woodward holds long practices, requires fast thinking and reflexes and offers tough competition? This challenge is a difficult one to accept; but the five members of the Quiz Bowl Team work hard in preparation for their match. Knowledge of tedious facts and frustrating figures is not only a must in this thinking competition but also a contributing factor to the remarkable development of these scholars' minds.

Canoeing down the Mohican, skiing and snowshoeing in Michigan, backpacking in Virginia . . . these activities, all a part of a school curriculum seem to be an impossible dream. Yet, this year at Woodward, a course labeled Field Studies in Science offered these experiences and much more. Throughout the year, the students are given instructions on survival, first aid, overall camping techniques and various sports. This class gives the members, not only the knowledge needed to undergo school expeditions, but also the know-how and experience necessary for planning and participating successfully in future camping trips. The outdoor experience gained during these field trips leads to a better understanding and relationship between the students and nature, and between the students themselves.

French

Junior Classical League, better known as the Latin Club, led an eventful year highlighted by sucker sales, paperback book sales, and a Latin convention in Columbus. During the Yuletide, JCL hosted a Christmas celebration "Saturnalia" with the Spanish Club members and their festive display of customs from earlier civilizations.

Bake sales and M&M sales early in the year boosted the German Club into action. Members arranged Christmas booklets comprized of German poems, songs, and stories depicting the Holiday Season, and distributed them to the Woodward faculty. These accomplished ideas show how a determined advisor like Mrs. Frischmann helps promote German cultural heritage, the true purpose of the club.

Members of the French Club seek a better understanding of the language and customs of France. Miss Paulette Zych advises this active organization which recently increased its treasury by selling rice-krispie treats, cracker jacks and programs at the International Festival. On Christmas and Valentine's Day the club ventured to the Oregon Old Folk's home and entertained aged couples by singing songs in French.

The Drama League, prominatly pursuing the fine arts, achieved a notable year. The league prospered in the production of "Cactus Flower", and shared their affluence by bringing Christmas cheer, festive skits, and gift boxes to grateful recipients at the Toledo State Hospital.

Members of the Drama Club who excel through their acting ability, work on stage crews, or attendance at play productions, earn the right to be inducted into the International Thespian Society. This is an honoray organization designed to recognize talented and determined drama students. The Thespians as well as the Drama Club are under the direction of Miss Paula Dorsek and Jeanne Graden.

The Palette Club focuses attention on the creative realms within an individual. Samples of aesthetic expression are exhibited at the annual Art Festival, the primary fund raiser for the group. The organization also applies its talents toward community service projects–this year producing silk screen prints for UNICEF.

FTA explores the vast opportunities in education. Members cultivate the qualities essential to competent instructors, and experience working with children in teaching and learning situations. Aiming for these desired goals, this club sponsors scholarships to deserving seniors planning to become Future Teachers of America.

The Future Homemakers of America is under the direction of the home-economics teachers. They instill upon the members domestic skills such as economic management and meal planning tips. This organization also stresses the importance of developing strong relationships between the home, school and city through community service projects.

Woodworkers - Radio Club

Here's the trouble! It's a dead spider! Only 15 dollars, please!

The Woodworkers Club functions under the direction of Mr. Bolger. He helps the students employ basic woodworking crafts to develop the organization as a community service club. The woodworkers sponsored an engraving sale, giving the student body an opportunity to purchase personalized name tags and key chains.

The Radio Club consists mainly of students in the electronics class. These young men are offered the opportunity to apply techniques they have learned in the classroom to better their organization. Repairing radios or television sets while charging only for the price of the parts is one of the activities requiring the skills taught by advisor and teacher Mr. Donald Thompson. An educational field trip to RCA helps members compare the engineering of a large company to smaller operations like those at Woodward.

During meetings or while on trips, members always practice bicycle safety, learn traffic laws, and gain experience in group riding. Guest speakers, policemen, or bicycle shop owners often highlight meetings by discussing new interesting developments in bicycle trails, trips, safety and laws.

H.E.R.O. I & II

Did you ever pass by room 201 without noticing the delectable aroma hovering in the halls? Chances are it is HERO cooking up a tantalizing taste treat. Young men and women enrolled in this three hour block, learn not only to prepare food but also to master catering, serving, and calculating food costs.

HERO's calendar is always packed with many fun-filled activities. These notable accomplishments are due to the competent advisors. They help develop the members' ability to assume responsibility in personal life and in the world of work, and often help these students find careers in the Home Economics Related Occupations.

Stop! Listen! Where's that sound coming from? Well, if it's a film projector or record player, Audio-Visual is held responsible. Mr. Jack J. Bolduan heads this reliable organization, with Mrs. Lois Leininger as secretarial supervisor.

A school service; AV allows young men to organize the sound systems for mass meetings, basketball games and programs in the auditorium. They also provide classrooms with audio-visual aids for a change of pace from the everyday text book studies to a fascinating world of sight and sound.

Afro-American

Some of the greatest blues singers and dancers are Negroes – all a part of the Negro culture today. This heritage is kept alive at Woodward through the Afro-American Club. Black history week, held in February, was concluded with an assembly, offering Woodward a sample of the Negro culture alive yesterday, today, and tomorrow.

Keeping the Mexican-American culture in full swing is the responsibility of the members of the Mexican-American Club.

Growing each year, this proud and determined group holds even more in store for the future.

DECA II. FRONT ROW: R. Buss–advisor, K. Bell–pres., C. Kotz–v.p., K. Romanczyk–rep., R. Collins–treas., B. Monhollen–sales chairman. BACK ROW: M. Matuszewski, B. Kubicki, T. Thomsen, D. Rodriques, P. Casares, S. Bodi, D. Haynes.

DECA I

Deca I and II is comprised of many ambitious students aiming for an understanding of economic difficulties and marketing ingenuities in the American society. Selling candy in the annual DECA Candy Sale isn't all that's been accomplished during the year. Competition for city and state offices and DECA manuals are just a few activities that have been challenged by Woodward members. These students found that work and co-operation doesn't have to be a burden with the bright atmosphere always present in Room 152.

C.O.E. Steno

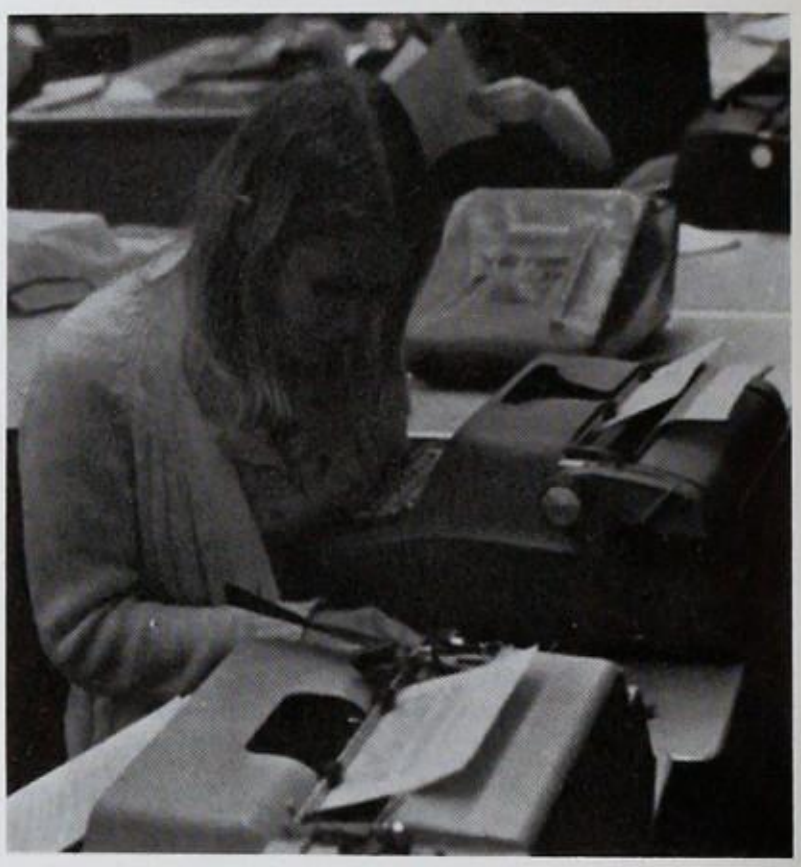
Familiar sounds are heard by those who approach Mr. Clement's C.O.E. Clerical class. This program offered in a friendly atmosphere promotes business careers and gives the student an opportunity to prepare themselves with the requirements needed in the vast business field.

Mrs. Kruzel's C.O.E. Steno Club becomes better acquainted with office procedures. Typing, filing, and shorthand are offered for the student's benefit – improving their chances for a successful future.



RIGHT, Is this member of C.O.E. Steno practicing her shorthand or is she drawing funny faces? ABOVE, Candy Borowicz re-reads what she has written to be sure it is correct.

COE Steno. FRONT ROW: J. Ulinski–pres., C. Borowicz–v.p., R. Sobecki–corr. sec., C. Williams–treas., V. Kos–rep., L. Davis–sarg., D. Protz. ROW 2: P. McClain, P. Pawlecki, P. Goodall, T. IOE Clubs promote friendship among students preparing for business careers. Certain requirements and opportunities in office education are a necessity to pursue career interests. These needs are fulfilled when the advisors put standards in ethics, workmanship and social relationships at the fingertips of the club members.

Freshmen Strive for a Firm Foundation

Total confusion . . . Drastic change . . . That's what this year's class experienced. It's not easy to forget the habits of eight years of elementary school when the doors of high school life open, exposing unfamiliar opportunities. This year's freshmen did remarkably well making the adjustment. Time after time, the "Class of '77" shows its spirit and organization. They manage to overcome the criticism usually given to the "frosh," and build a strong foundation and well-known reputation of being Woodward's finest.

Advisors Aid Frosh in Climbing Scholastic Ladder

Imagine trying to organize an over-active and over-aggressive group of freshmen. It becomes as involved as the construction of the DNA molecule. The title of "advisor" is part of a package loaded with responsibility. It's working along with the students, sacrificing a lot of time to organize and produce.

The "Class of '77" attributes much of its prosperity to their advisors, Mr. Smith and Mrs. Steward. These individuals advancing with set goals, have a long way to go, but they've come a long way already – they are involved!

Class Activities Ignite Enthusiam, Produce Action

What is it like to be involved in high school activities . . . To have a homecoming . . . To be part of a club?

These and many other questions run through the corridors of every freshman's mind. They are scared and shy, but before long they fall into the ol' high school groove. The "frosh" prove themselves academically and become involved in extracurricular activities. Sign competitions, elections, and individual clubs contribute to a hectic but enjoyable schedule.

First impressions make lasting memories. The impressions left by the "Class of '77" will never be forgotten.

Noble Advances Account for Sophomore Success

Getting things underway this year is the class of '76. This group of determined students did not waste any time getting activities organized.

A great beginning was their Homecoming float entitled "Bears Turn the Key to Victory". The Soph's then moved on joining clubs and participating in sports. Next in line were elections, as students voted for the candidate they felt was the best qualified. Sponsoring an assembly and a fashion show made the winter months pass quickly. This fulfilling year ended with the annual Sophomore Dance.

Bake sales . . . dances . . . sign competition . . . skating parties . . . there is never a dull moment with the Sophomore class in action; always working till the end. When planning any activity, these individuals add the necessary ingredients for success; organization, unity and determination.

True pride is seen when anything is accomplished and when all of Woodward gets involved. Throughout the year the Sophomore class has lived up to these standards in whatever they pursue.

With a group of individuals such as this, one can be sure much more is in store for the class of '76.

Officers Encourage Junior Participation

An outstanding percentage of Woodward's pep and vitality resounds from the class of 1975. Memorable events–sign competitions, the junior float, junior week, and the prom, all amplify their enthusiasm. The election of officers marked the beginning of money making projects–candy sales, skating parties, bowling parties, and bake sales.

Old acquaintances are strengthened and new ones sought as Jrs. add memories to their high school years.

Juniors Pave a Solid Road for the Future

The Class of '75 has come a long way since those 'Freshmen' days. Throughout this year as in the past, their loyalty, drive and determination continues to shine. These Juniors are always ready and willing to do their best in extracurricular activities. Among these, Homecoming has proven its worth with the prize winning float, "There's No Way Around It, The Shoe Is Ours."

The past held some failures, paving the way to improvement. Now the future couldn't be brighter for the Class of '75.

Factoring polynomials in Algebra . . . Memorizing the Periodic Table in Chemistry . . . Tackling procedures in a three-hour business block . . . These are a few of the many electives offered to the Class of '75.

Throughout an academic year, success requires self-discipline and a desire for challenge. Satisfaction and a sense of fulfillment is gained when students resort to this discipline and accept challenge as a source of accomplishment. A prosperous and active school life for the Juniors will prove to be an important part of their future.

Four years at Woodward have brought the senior class a long way. Prosperous and enlightening experiences have been abundant because of determination and unity, yet these successes could not have been achieved alone. Necessary arrangements and preparations lie in the hands of the advisors.

The senior class struck the jackpot with their advisors, Mrs. Ward and Mr. Kedzierski, always giving advice and help whenever or wherever necessary. Their full-time efforts and guidance have been the means to a prosperous and enlightening phase of education.
